

I think people should turn off lights when they're not using them, maybe walk or bike instead of driving, and use less water when possible.